DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The following guidelines illustrate the preferred layout for the specification of a utility application. These guidelines are suggested for the applicant's use.

Arrangement of the Specification

As provided in 37 CFR 1.77(b), the specification of a utility application should include the following sections in order. Each of the lettered items should appear in upper case, without underlining or bold type, as a section heading. If no text follows the section heading, the phrase "Not Applicable" should follow the section heading:

- (a) TITLE OF THE INVENTION.
- (b) CROSS-REFERENCE TO RELATED APPLICATIONS.
- (c) STATEMENT REGARDING FEDERALLY SPONSORED RESEARCH OR DEVELOPMENT.
- (d) THE NAMES OF THE PARTIES TO A JOINT RESEARCH AGREEMENT.
- (e) INCORPORATION-BY-REFERENCE OF MATERIAL SUBMITTED ON A COMPACT DISC.
- (f) BACKGROUND OF THE INVENTION.
 - (1) Field of the Invention.
 - (2) Description of Related Art including information disclosed under 37 CFR 1.97 and 1.98.
- (g) BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE INVENTION.
- (h) BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE SEVERAL VIEWS OF THE DRAWING(S).
- (i) DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE INVENTION.
- (j) CLAIM OR CLAIMS (commencing on a separate sheet).
- (k) ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE (commencing on a separate sheet).
- (l) SEQUENCE LISTING (See MPEP § 2424 and 37 CFR 1.821-1.825. A "Sequence Listing" is required on paper if the application discloses a nucleotide or amino acid sequence as defined in 37 CFR 1.821(a) and if the required "Sequence Listing" is not submitted as an electronic document on compact disc).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 2003/0129353 issued to Abrams.

Abrams discloses a flocked article having flock fibers (i.e., furs) positioned in upstanding, substantially vertical orientation via electrostatic flocking methods (abstract and sections [0016] and [0017]). The flock fibers themselves may be made of a conductive material (e.g., rayon, polyester, nylon) (section [0012]). Additionally, the “flock has an electrically conductive chemical finish coating to enable it to become charged as well as to enable it to continually change charges back and forth from positive to negative thousands of times per minute” (section [0017]). The flock surface may have a multicolored pattern effect (section [0013]).

Thus, Abrams teaches the invention of claims 1-3 with the exception that the surface color of the fabric is revealed due to the substantially vertical orientation of the flock. However, it is asserted that this limitation is inherently met by the teachings of Abrams. Specifically, since the flock is upstanding, the surface of the underlying fabric will inherently be visible. Therefore, claims 1-3 are anticipated by the prior art.

Regarding claim 4, it is argued that the conductive flock layer of Abrams is capable of serving as a coupling to a power source. Note applicant merely recites functional language without positively reciting a power source. As such, claim 4 is also rejected.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 5-10 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 11-19 are allowed.

5. The prior art fails to teach or suggest an upstanding flock fabric that is coupled to a circuit integrated in a garment or furniture. Additionally, the prior art fails to teach or suggest methods of dressing a person in said garment or integrating said flock fabric in furniture and then selectively providing an electrostatic force to a selected region of the conductive flock to force the fibers to stand upright.
